

Group Supervision - Making it Work

6 x half day course

This is an opportunity for health care professionals to complete a short course of CPD to gain insight into the process of Group Supervision and the skills required to effectively facilitate this vital component of professional practice.

Through a mixture of taught components, discussion groups and practical workshops the course will encourage participants to consider the implications of Clinical Supervision and practice using the associated skills in a safe and supportive environment.

20 degree level credits could be available by undertaking the 'Developing Practice through Independent Learning module with agreement by your education lead.

You will:

- Discuss the nature of Group Supervision and its benefits to professional practice
- Consider the skills required for effective Group Supervision
- Enhance your competence in analysing and advancing practice
- Undertake Group Supervision in a safe and supportive environment
- Consider how to implement Group Supervision in your place of work
