

Legal Profession

Solicitor

Provides legal advice to clients, drafts legal documents, negotiates, and represents clients in non-court matters. Specialises in areas such as family, corporate, or property law.

Advocate Solicitor

A solicitor with additional accreditation to represent clients in higher courts. Combines skills of a solicitor and barrister.

Barrister

Specialist advocate representing clients in court. Provides expert legal opinions and appears in tribunals and higher courts.

Chartered Legal Executive

A qualified lawyer specialising in a specific area of law. Often works alongside solicitors and barristers but follows a different qualification route.

Paralegal

Supports lawyers by conducting research, preparing documents, and assisting with casework. Often a step toward becoming a solicitor.

Court Legal Adviser

Provides legal advice to magistrates and judges to ensure proper legal procedures are followed during court proceedings.

Legal Secretary

Supports legal professionals by preparing documents, managing correspondence, and organising legal files.

Legal Assistant

Provides administrative and casework support to legal teams, helping with research, documentation, and client communication.

Mediator

Facilitates negotiations to help parties resolve disputes without going to court. Common in family, commercial, and employment disputes.

Judge

Presides over court proceedings, interprets the law, and delivers judgments to ensure fair trials.

Notary Public

Authenticates documents and oversees the signing of important legal documents for international or official use.

Arbitrator

Resolves disputes outside of court through arbitration, often used in commercial and international legal matters.

In-House Counsel

A lawyer employed within a company to provide legal advice on contracts, compliance, and risk management.

Law Enforcement &
Public Safety

Police Officer

Enforces the law, investigates crimes, and ensures public safety. Law graduates may join through fast-track leadership schemes.

Detective

Specialises in investigating serious crimes such as fraud, homicide, or cybercrime.

Probation Officer

Works with offenders to reduce reoffending and help them reintegrate into society while ensuring they comply with court orders.

Non-
Governmental Organisations
(NGOs) and
Public Service

NGO Worker (Legal Officer)

Works for charities or NGOs on issues such as human rights, environmental law, or immigration law.

Diplomat

Represents the UK in international relations, negotiating treaties, and advising on foreign policy legal matters.

Civil Servant (Policy Advisor)

Develops, advises, and implements public policies in areas like justice, immigration, or international law.

Human Rights Advocate

Protects individuals' rights by working with human rights organisations and advising on compliance with international law.

Legal Compliance Officer

Ensures organisations comply with laws and regulations, commonly in industries like finance, healthcare, or corporate governance.

Immigration Officer

Assesses visa and asylum applications, ensuring compliance with immigration laws.

Academia and Education

Law Professor

Teaches law at university, conducts research, and publishes legal papers.

Legal Researcher

Conducts in-depth research on legal issues to support cases, academic work, or policy development.

Legal Consultant

Provides expert legal advice to organisations on specialised areas such as environmental law or intellectual property.

Legal Translator

Translates legal documents between languages, ensuring legal accuracy in international contexts.

Corporate and Business Sector

Corporate Governance Officer

Advises companies on compliance with corporate laws and governance practices.

Risk Manager

Identifies and mitigates legal risks within organisations, ensuring compliance with laws and regulations.

Human Resources Manager

Manages employment law issues such as contracts, equality, and disciplinary matters within organisations.

Contracts Manager

Drafts, reviews, and manages contracts to protect a company's legal interests.

NOTE: Some roles may require additional postgraduate study or professional qualifications. This list is not exhaustive, and many employers are flexible about degree backgrounds, so consider exploring opportunities beyond those listed here.

BA (Hons) History ●

Banker

Analysis of investment opportunities.

Recruitment Agent

Connecting employers with potential employees, headhunting.

Human Resources

Supports employee-related matters, including recruitment, employee relations, performance management, and compliance with employment laws.

Heritage
& Museums

Curators

Responsible for selecting, organising, and managing collections of art, artifacts, or specimens, ensuring that they are displayed and interpreted effectively by the public.

Museum Personnel

Encompasses a range of roles dedicated to the day-to-day operations of a museum, including administration, visitor services, and support for exhibitions and programmes.

Site Management

Oversees operations and maintenance of historical or archaeological sites, ensuring preservation, safety, and engagement for visitors while managing staff and resources.

Education Officers

Develops and implements educational programmes and resources for museums or cultural institutions, aiming to engage diverse audiences.

Archivist

Organises, preserves, and manages historical documents and artifacts for public access.

Heritage Manager

Oversees preservation and promotion of cultural heritage sites to ensure their historical significance is maintained.

Historian

Researches and interprets historical events and artefacts to provide context and insights for museum exhibits.

Academic Researcher

Conducts in-depth studies on historical topics to contribute valuable knowledge to museum collections and displays.

Librarian

Manages and organises museum libraries to ensure access to historical books, documents, and resources.

Media Researcher

Investigates and gathers multimedia content related to heritage to support museum exhibitions.

Political Analyst

Examines historical political events and their impact to provide analysis for museum displays.

Writer

Creates engaging content about historical topics, crafting narratives for museum exhibits, publications, and educational resources.

Public Safety

Security Analyst

Studies and assesses international risks, advises business & governmental clients on managing risks.

Police Officer

Enforces laws, maintains public order, and ensures community safety by patrolling neighbourhoods, responding to emergencies, and investigating crimes.

Non-
Governmental Organisations
(NGOs) and
Public Service

NGO Worker

Inspired by the study of international law and human rights, graduates can work for charities, NGOs & Not for profit organisations to make a difference on important issues.

Diplomat

Researches trends in foreign countries, advises government on relationships with foreign states.

Civil Servant

Conducts research, carries out administrative work, communicates with ministers and government officials.

Education

Teacher

Teaching in primary or secondary school.

University Lecturer

Teaching at university, research and publication.

Media & Communication

Public Relations

Research, writing, analytical skills, project management.

Journalist

Researching leads, preparing stories, writing scripts and articles.

Copywriter

Create written content that promotes a business/product.

Publisher

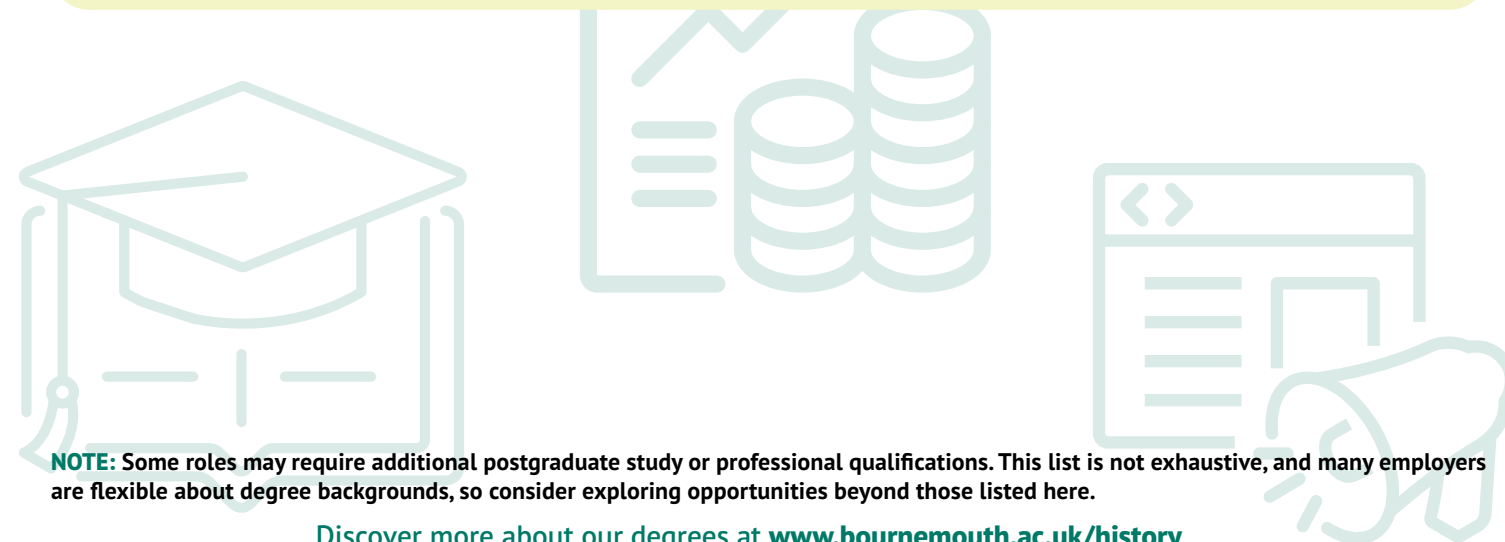

Manage all aspects of the publishing process for a variety of media.

Digital Marketer

Using online channels and platforms to promote products and services, build brand awareness and target customers.

Social Media Manager

Planning, creating and managing social media content to help organisation/businesses to achieve goals.

NOTE: Some roles may require additional postgraduate study or professional qualifications. This list is not exhaustive, and many employers are flexible about degree backgrounds, so consider exploring opportunities beyond those listed here.

Discover more about our degrees at www.bournemouth.ac.uk/history

Discover more about our degrees at www.bournemouth.ac.uk/history