The global Festival of Learning in India is one exciting way in which Bournemouth University fosters international public engagement to celebrate learning, disseminate research and expertise, and deliver impact across borders.

This year's Festival of Learning in India will be delivered in collaboration with three of our educational partners in South Asia: the University of Madras, Chennai; Symbiosis International University, Pune; and Ashoka University, Sonapat.

The festival provides a forum for researchers, educators, policymakers, businesses, students, and the wider Indian community to engage in a week-long programme of knowledge exchange and interaction. The theme this year is Envisioning Education 2050: The Future of Education in India and UK.

Bringing together stakeholders from higher education, policy and industry, the festival will provide a unique platform to take education and learning in imaginative new directions.

We look forward to seeing you at the Festival of Learning in India!
