Spotting and seizing opportunities

 17:00-19:00

 F305, Fusion Building,
Talbot Campus

A must attend event for students of any course or year group. Learn how to make the most of your time at university, how to carve out a career path that suites you, and how to sell yourself to employers.

Create your unique career path, with confidence

Guest speaker Ian Dancer went from a degree in Environmental Science to being a Financial Trader and then an Operations Manager with responsibilities for graduate recruitment and training new staff. Ian is now a Business Solutions Expert. In short, Ian knows what recruiters in different sectors are looking for, the skills and attributes that students need, and how to make the most of your time at university to stand out with employers and then succeed in the workplace.

Ian's interactive session will help you build confidence in yourself, the way you can start mapping out your future, how you can weave an interesting career together, and will include some of the best and worst examples from his career and recruitment experience.

Maximise your time at university to achieve your potential

Our second guest speaker is Lenrick Greaves, SUBU Vice President for Education, who will inspire you to transform how you connect with BU and make the most of the opportunities available to you.

Work Your Networks

David Wakeford, Head of Careers & Employability at BU, will be passing on top tips for networking with ready-made contacts, including BU graduates, and detail some of the upcoming events and programmes open to all students that can transform your career expectations and outcomes.

Booking your place via MyCareerHub 'On Campus Events' is strongly advised, but pop along in case there is space.

Tuesday 22 October

Future tech for networking in the global market

🕒 09.30-11.30

📍 F202, Fusion Building, Talbot Campus

Anne-Marie will talk about how rapid tech developments are changing the way we live and work in the global, physical and virtual environment. How creative use of tech as a tool to build bridges, connect and communicate across environmental and cultural boundaries is key to a successful global career.

The session will wrap up with an informal networking breakfast where you will have the opportunity to meet the speaker and other attendees to enhance your networking strategies.

How can BU help?

As part of this session you will also get the opportunity to find out about the various overseas opportunities that are available for BU students such as study, work or volunteering overseas. Employers understand that working and living in a different environment and culture is challenging in a way that encourages personal and professional growth.

Booking your place via MyCareerHub 'On Campus Events' is strongly advised, but pop along in case there is space.

Guest Speaker:

Anne-Marie Imafidon

From child prodigy to MBE, Dr Anne-Marie Imafidon is Head Stemette and co-founder of Stemettes, the award-winning social enterprise inspiring the next generation of females into Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) via a series of impactful events and opportunities.

At the age of 20, she became one of the youngest people ever to be awarded a Master's in Mathematics & Computer Science by the University of Oxford, and her career has continued to soar.

In recognition of her significant influence and achievements, Anne-Marie was awarded an MBE in the 2017 New Year's Honours for services to young women and STEM sectors. In June of the same year, she was also made an Honorary Fellow at Keble College, Oxford.

2018 saw her listed among the top 50 women in the world in tech by Forbes, voted the 5th most influential woman in IT by Computer Weekly and recipient of the prestigious Barclays UK 'Woman of the Year' award.

In addition to her work championing getting women into STEM, Anne-Marie has amassed a wealth of experience through her work with Goldman Sachs, Hewlett-Packard, Deutsche Bank and Lehman Brothers. She is also a recognised thought leader in the tech space, regularly appearing as a media commentator, and giving talks at tech giants such as SXSW and Founders Forum.

Would you like to improve your employability, grow in confidence, boost your grades and make new friends?

An international experience can help you achieve this and more!

Along with gaining confidence, people who study, work or volunteer overseas gain skills such as; adaptability, tact and diplomacy, creative problem solving, flexibility, resilience, self-awareness, decision making, intercultural awareness and an understanding of their subject area from a global perspective. Employers understand that working and living in a different environment and culture is challenging in a way that encourages personal and professional growth. They recognise that employees with these skills are important assets for their business and therefore, want to employ graduates who have had an overseas experience related to their degree. Pop by for a coffee and have a chat to our exhibitors about the opportunities available to study, work or volunteer overseas during your time at BU and find out about funding available to support your experience.

Ben Fogle: Shape your global future

🕒 14.00-15.15

📍 Share Lecture Theatre,
Talbot Campus

Ben will draw on his own inspirational story to showcase how international experiences have shaped his life. He will focus on how living and working overseas can challenge our way of thinking, how we feel about the world and our place in it, and how overcoming adversity can inspire excellence that will create a better, more sustainable, ethical world for us all to live in.

How can BU help?

As part of this session you will also get the opportunity to find out about the various overseas opportunities that are available for BU students such as study, work or volunteering overseas. In an increasingly automated and digitalised world employers are seeking candidates who can demonstrate personal skills that cannot be replicated by technology. Employers understand that working and living in a different environment and culture is challenging in a way that encourages personal and professional growth.

Booking your place via MyCareerHub 'On Campus Events' is strongly advised, but pop along in case there is space.

Guest Speaker: Ben Fogle

Ben Fogle is a former reservist in the Royal Navy. He first appeared on the BBC's Castaway, in which he was marooned on an island in the Outer Hebrides for a year.

Ben has since gone on to become a broadcaster, traveller and adventurer. He is an ambassador for the World Wildlife Fund and the Princes Trust, amongst others and has won a Royal Television Society award for this highly acclaimed TV show Through Hell and High Water.

Ben's adventures have included rowing the Atlantic Ocean, crossing Antarctica on foot, running across the Sahara, climbing Mount Everest and riding a camel across the Empty Quarter - the largest uninterrupted desert on Earth!

His TV career includes programmes as diverse as a documentary on Prince William in Africa to One Man and his Dog and hit BBC adventure show Extreme Dreams. He also works as a reporter for various international news channels and programmes.

In addition to his TV career, Ben also has a passion for writing and has written nine Sunday Times bestseller books including, Journey's to Britain's Faraway Outposts and Race to the Pole: Conquering Antarctica the Toughest Race on Earth, two travel memoirs and a weekly diary for the Sunday Telegraph.

Careers Fairs are an ideal way to meet employers (local, national and international) in a relaxed environment, with staff on hand to help. Whether you know exactly what you want in your career, or would just like to learn more about different opportunities, a Careers Fair at BU is an essential event.

Recent student feedback:

"Great way to make contacts, very good employers."

"Businesses were welcoming and interesting."

"Really insightful, lots of good employers."

Make the most of the Annual Careers Fair: 23 and 24 October

Plan your day!

Do some research on the companies exhibiting at the fair – information can be found on MyCareerHub. You'll look much more professional and interested if you're knowledgeable about them, rather than having to ask 'so what do you do then?'

Take your CV

Bring along several copies of an up-to-date CV to give out to employers. You're unlikely to gain a job offer on the day but you will meet people who can be very helpful in your first step to employment or a placement.

Dress to impress

There isn't a dress code for careers fairs, but as you're hoping to impress a potential future employer, it's good to dress smartly. Most of the representatives of the employers at the fair will be in business suits, so you'll fit in with them – it will also help you feel more professional and confident too.

Arrive early

Careers fairs can get very busy so if you arrive early you're more likely to find the employers' tables quieter and easier to approach, with more time to chat to their representatives. And visit both days!

Network

Make sure that you talk to people; that's what they are there for! And if you talk to someone who can offer you something in the future, leave your CV and make sure you take their card. Try to appear confident and interested, but without being arrogant. Judge the situation and use it as an opportunity to sell yourself if appropriate, but it is more likely you will be learning about the sorts of things their company does.

Stay focused!

Everyone loves freebies, but don't treat the fair as an opportunity to pick up as many free promotional items as possible – you're there to research career possibilities so focus on the materials relevant for you.

Consider new opportunities

The great thing about careers fairs is that you can find out about companies and jobs that you may never have even considered before, so don't close your mind to new opportunities. You may find yourself a new dream job or placement!

Don't be shy!

Networking isn't easy, but try and be yourself – you will almost always be met with a friendly response so get stuck in. Be enthusiastic, demonstrate your interest, and focus on your talents and what the company has to offer. You will find the fair far more rewarding if you take this approach. The companies are there to meet you – they want to tell you about themselves too.

Follow up any leads

If you're given contact details from a company or sector you're interested in, make sure you make contact after the fair is over. You could simply thank them for their time and say how much you enjoyed meeting them. Or you could ask to be kept informed of future opportunities. If appropriate, you could even ask to meet with them to learn about the jobs they offer in more detail. Remember that they may have spoken to hundreds of people at the fair, so you have to stand out. The best way of doing this is to follow up the contact quickly and politely.
